HACKER GETS PLACE

Former District Engineer
Building Inspector.

BEGINS NEW DUTIES JULY 1

J. P. Healy Is Nominated Assistant Inspector and Thomas Francis Gets Similar Promotion—Snowden Ashford Explains New System of Fees. Will Not Take Men Into New Office.

As indicated in the Sunday issue of The Washington Herald, Morris Hacker was yesterday morning appointed building inspector for the District of Columbia to succeed Snowden Ashford, promoted to the new position, created by the Sixtieth Congress, of municipal architect. Inspector Ashford will assume his new duties in the office of municipal architect July 1, and will be succeeded by Mr. Hacker as building inspector.

With the announcement of the appointment of Mr. Hacker as building inspector, the following nominations were made, to become effective July 1: John P. Healy, chief computer in the building inspector's office, to be assistant to the building inspector; Thomas Francis, jr., who has been acting as assistant to the building inspector since the retirement of A. M. Poynton, will become an assistant building inspector at $1,500 per annum, vice E. J. Curtis, promoted to an inspectorship. The position of chief computer, made vacant by the promotion of Mr. Healy, has not been filled. The position pays $1,500.

Makes a Sacrifice.
In surrendering his present position to come to Washington to accept a place under the District government at a less salary than he now receives, it is understood that Mr. Hacker makes this sacrifice to gratify his desire to again reside in Washington. He is expected to arrive here probably a week in advance of July 1, so as to enable him to familiarize himself with the duties of his new position.

Mr. Hacker's record shows that he is well qualified to perform the new responsibilities that he will assume in the building inspector's office. He is a Philadelphian by birth and was educated in that city. He completed his education for a collegiate course in Switzerland. He took his degree of civil engineering at the University of Pennsylvania and was later engineer of the Drum Point Railroad, in Maryland. Coming to Washington, he was employed by Senator Newlands and the syndicate that laid out and developed Chevy Chase and the construction of the electric road from this city to that residential section.

Upon the completion of that work he went West and for a time was engaged in mining engineering. On July 11, 1898, he was appointed assistant engineer for the District government, and three years later was promoted to the position of superintendent of county roads, and assistant engineer in charge of Rock Creek Park.

Engineer Commissioner Judson said, after the announcement of Mr. Hacker's appointment, that he came to the Commissioners highly recommended as possessing every qualification to fill the position. He said that he expected excellent results from the new administration.

John P. Healy, who becomes principal assistant to the building inspector, is a Washingtonian, and is well known as a builder and structural engineer. He followed those vocations for more than twenty years in this city and in New York. In 1900 he was appointed superintendent of construction in the building inspector's office, and later an inspector of buildings under construction. During the past five years he has been at the head of the computing department of the office as a civil engineer.

Snowden Ashford said yesterday he believed Mr. Hacker would bring to his new duties an administration that would prove successful and advantageous, both to the public having business with the office and the District government.

New Fees Discussed.
Discussing the new fees of the building inspector's office which go into effect July 1, Inspector Ashford said: "We have just made a calculation based upon the receipt of fees for the office for the month of May at the new fee rates and find that the receipts would have been $3,519 more than enough to pay all the expenses of the office, including salaries. Congress has been petitioning for the fees of the office to four times what they formerly were, with the object to make the fees pay all expenses of the office. The calculations just made on the May receipts at the new rate demonstrates that under the new rate in effect July 1, the receipts from this source will meet every expense of the office. The advance in rates is best shown when it is stated that under the old rate a permit to make repairs cost $1, under the new schedule a similar permit will cost $4.

"The average receipts of the office from fees has been something like $9,000 annually and the expenses of the office have been for a similar period $21,000, or $22,000 on the debit side."

Mr. Ashford denied that when he assumed charge of the office of municipal architect he would take a number of the best men in the building inspector's office with him.

GRAY BEGINS HIS DEFENSE

Government Concludes Its Case
Against Accused Bookkeeper.

Counsel for Defendant Produce Witnesses to Combat Testimony of Prosecuting Lawyers.

The government concluded its case yesterday, and the defense was begun in the trial of Oden B. Gray in Criminal Court No. 1, on a charge of abstracting money from the accounts of two depositors of the Washington Loan and Trust Company, of which he was a bookkeeper, and opening accounts at other banks under a forged assumed name. Counsel for Gray, A. A. Lipscomb, and Crandall Mackey, waived the preliminary statement to the jury.

On the ground that the government had produced only such witnesses as would help its case in proving that Gray, as agent for the Allegheny Coal Company, received money from patrons of the company for a period of ten months prior to August last, and on the repeated demands of the company paid in $1,000 on the same day he is alleged to have drawn $1,700 from the United States Trust Company, the defense placed witnesses on the stand who had paid money to the defendant for the coal company.

G. A. Veitch testified he gave Gray $30 in June, July, and August of last year; B. A. Streeks that he gave him $37.50 in payments from November, 1907, to June 15, 1908; C. H. Morris that he paid $50 in July and August last; W. S. Kendrick that he gave Gray $5.75 in 1908, and H. Baumgartner that he gave him $38 from September, 1907, to June 20, 1908.

Detective Charles Evans, testifying for the government, said he spoke with Gray on the day of his arrest, February 6, 1908, in the directors' room of the Washington Loan and Trust Company, and that Gray made contradictory statements regarding his income.

J. C. Brooke, bookkeeper, and H. B. Claxton, receiving teller of the Washington Loan and Trust Company, testified that the handwriting on the deposit slips alleged to have been made by Gray in opening accounts with the United States Trust Company and the National Capital Bank, resembled that of the defendant.

Mr. Claxton, on cross-examination, however, said there was no "G" in any of the suspected writing which resembled that of Gray.

Police Patrol Boat Crew Find Corpses at Marshall Hall.

The crew of the steam launch Major Sylvester, of the harbor police, went to Marshall Hall yesterday and recovered the body of Frederick Whyte, eighteen years, who was drowned at the river resort Sunday night.

Young Whyte was standing on the wharf when the steamer Macalester pulled up to make a landing. He attempted to board the steamer before she had tied up to the wharf, falling into the river and drowning before assistance could reach him.

The body was taken to the morgue and later turned over to Lee, the undertaker. Arrangements for the funeral have not been made.

The young man was a son of William Whyte, streetcar driver at the Government Printing Office, residing at 311 Massachusetts avenue northwest. He was employed in the jewelry store of Berry & Whitmore, Eleventh and F streets northwest.

Ida N. Garber Sues Washington Railway and Electric Company.

The Washington Railway and Electric Company was made defendant yesterday in a suit for $10,000 brought in the District Supreme Court by Ida N. Garber.

The complainant says she was leaving a car of the defendant company February 8 last, at East Capitol and Eighth streets, and that the car was started forward before she had alighted. She was thrown to the ground, she says, and seriously injured. She is represented by Attorneys G. H. Macdonald and W. A. Garber.

HELD FOR THE GRAND JURY.

William Johnson, of Georgetown, Charged with Housebreaking.

William Johnson, of Georgetown, was before Judge Mulhoney yesterday in Police Court in a preliminary hearing on a charge of housebreaking. In default of $1,000 bond he was committed to jail for action by the grand jury.

Johnson is charged with having entered the store of Mrs. Rebecca Levy, 2805 M street, Georgetown, on June 6. It is alleged he carried off watches, shoes, revolvers, and other merchandise to the value of $100. The police say at the time he was arrested fourteen watches and revolvers, identified as the property of Mrs. Levy, were found in his possession. Johnson denies he is guilty.

REAL ESTATE NOTES

The Columbia Heights Realty Company has let contract for grading the block of ground between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, north of Florida avenue, adjoining the Barber property. Belmont street will be extended from Thirteenth to Fourteenth street. It has sold the entire frontage on the south side of Belmont street, through Allan E. Walker & Co., to John L. Warren, who will improve the property by the erection of two detached apartment houses of Spanish architecture with overhanging mansard roofs of red tile, and a row of residences to contain ten rooms and two baths, with lots twenty-four feet in width.

This property has finally given away to the march of building, and will soon be covered by houses and apartments. It is of historic interest, having been used as a camp for volunteers during the civil war. It was purchased by Senator Sherman and his associates in the early '70s from the Stone estate. Many of the residents will regret to see the destruction of the large oak trees on the property.

The two-story brick residence at 747 Newton street northwest has been sold to Mrs. M. E. Yeager, through the office of Shannon & Luchs for a home. The consideration in the transaction was $4,300. This house is one of a row of seventeen recently erected by Middaugh & Shannon. It contains six rooms.

George L. Flower has purchased through Boss & Phelps the residence 3008 Thirteenth street northwest, Columbia Heights, for $7,500. The house contains eleven rooms, and is heated by hot water. The lot is 17 feet wide by 160 feet deep.

SECOND VOTING PERIOD Will Close at Midnight To-night

THE Vote Scale which ends at midnight to-night is higher than any vote scale which will be in effect during the remaining period of the contest. The third, and last, voting period will begin at midnight to-night, and although the usual clubbing rates on clubs of $18 and $30 will still obtain, the number of votes given therefor will be materially less than it has been heretofore.

The contest is rapidly nearing an end, and less than three weeks hence will see the close. There will be great rejoicing among the winners, while the losers will feel more or less chagrin, which will be added to by the knowledge that hard work would have made up the difference between being a winner and being a loser. There is yet time to save yourself, though; as we have been telling you all along, you will have to do some hard work between now and the close on July 3. You can't possibly do too much during the few hours that remain of the Second Voting Period, and we advise you to get every subscription you possibly can to-day, and turn them in before midnight to-night. A great deal may be done in a few hours. We know this, because we have seen it done, and we also know that it can be done again. We are expecting a "warm" finish, and if you want to be among the leaders, you have no time to be lagging behind now. Everything depends upon the kind of work you do, because it will be a struggle from now on until the end.
